Career Bio

Almona graduated in law in 1991 and after studying at the Inns of Court School of Law was trained in leading commercial chambers at 4 Pump Court, Temple, London. She is a member of The Honourable Society of Lincoln's Inn.

Aside from her legal background, Almona has a 20 year track record of entrepreneurship in the property, retail and legal sectors. She has been involved in developing a retail, restaurant and property empire in London having a multi million pound turnover and asset stock. This includes substantial Georgian town houses in front of the British Museum, rental stock across North London and Stoke Newington's largest restaurant outlet. For many years she headed the provision of in house legal services across the range of businesses, involving high level contractual and property transactions. She is also an investor in the Middle East and Spain.

In the 1990's Almona collaborated with fellow Director Graeme Wood and US giant Harcourt Brace in introducing ground-breaking US legal education programmes in the United Kingdom, the Republic of Ireland and the Far East. Almona is committed to excellence in the field of legal training and services and as an investor-founder of Europa Law.com her legal, commercial and educational background are a natural conduit for her current role.

Almona is an exhibited artist, a former athlete and her interests include skiing & kayaking.
